

Masia San Antonio

Designated as "Site of Cultural Interest", San Antonio is a Stately home that, together with Cal Pla Villa, creates the most recognizable picture of the Cunit town area.

The building of the Masia can be seen from a distance thanks to its six-floor tower and the massive building.

The current building is the result of the 1901 refurbishing and it has been fitted out to host corporate Events easily, efficiently and effectively and receive your guests in a unique and amazing setting.

Country house and home to the Bultó-Marqués family since 1800, it is also well known for being the birth place of Spanish motorcycling. The developing of Bultaco motorcycles as well as the first trial competition in Spain took place in this state. Historical motorcycling figures such as Sammy Miller or the Lampkin brothers as well as Joel Robert, Harry Everts or Jim L. Pomeroy were frequent users of the tracks that are still available in the San Antonio grounds.

Climate

San Antonio is graced with a quintessentially Mediterranean climate, marked by mild winters and warm summers with little rain. In summer, the region's low humidity prevents the formation of fog.

The region's mountainous geography likewise contributes to its stable climate, making it an optimum place to enjoy outdoor activities all year long. Average temperatures range from approximately 14° in winter to between 21° and 29° in summer.
